YELLOW FEVER REQUIREMENT SCRAPPED

Travellers going to or coming from Rwanda will no longer be required to produce a yellow fever vaccination certificate when in South Africa. The decision was made following the World Health Organisation (WHO) including Rwanda in a list of countries with low potential for exposure to the yellow fever virus.

OR TAMBO BEGINS TRIALLING BIOMETRIC CAPTURING

The Department of Home Affairs has begun a pilot project to begin capturing biometric data at South Africa's international airports. While biometrics are not being taken at this stage training has already begun at OR Tambo International Airport. This development is part of the department's project to modernise its Enhanced Movement Control System (EMCS) at all ports of entry, which includes the use of biometric technology. Lanseria International Airport, OR Tambo International Airport, King Shaka International Airport and Cape Town International Airport have been selected to serve as pilot sites to conduct testing on the new functionality of capturing biometrics.

INFORMATION REGARDING SCHENGEN VISAS

French Ambassador to South Africa, Elisabeth Barbier, has denied claims that France has stopped issuing Schengen visas in order to replace them with a French National visa. This development reaffirms information released by Capago on the 16th of November, which said travellers with Schengen visas can still enter and exit the country. However, delays may be experienced due to extensive security controls. Procedures regarding Schengen Visa applications remain the same. Meanwhile Air France says that due to the declaration of a state of emergency official photo identification is mandatory for entering, leaving or transiting through France with immediate effect.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR DRIVERS CROSSING SA BOARDERS

The South African Police Service has implemented new regulations that require drivers of cars with South African-registered plates to carry certified documents proving ownership. This new requirement will be implemented at all South African border posts. The documents should include a certified copy of vehicle registration and vehicle license papers which must be presented at the border posts. This must be accompanied by a letter from the bank giving authorization to take the vehicle across the border and must indicate dates of travel. Both the bank letter and license papers should be signed by a Commissioner of Oaths. If the driver of the vehicle is not the owner of the vehicle, an affidavit from the police giving authorization from the financial institution/owner to take the vehicle abroad is required. If the car is rented, the driver must have a letter from the rental company giving permission to take the vehicle out of the country.
